

There is No Way of Keeping Him Out of It.

The New York Herald, a Gold Bug Paper, Practically Gives It Up.

The Combined Vote of the Democrats and Populists All Over the Country

IS SURE TO ELECT HIM.

(From the New York Journal.)
The Herald may not be the best informed newspaper in the city on political matters, but it tries as well as any other to be impartial in its calculations as far as its capacity goes.

Making what it calls a careful canvass of the probable election results up to last Sunday, it gives Bryan 217 electoral votes and McKinley 237, or thirteen more votes than are necessary to a choice.

The Herald's canvass is most convincing to the Democratic party, especially as it comes from a hostile source. Included in the Bryan column are the following States, which are by some calculations classified as uncertain:

California	9
Michigan	14
North Carolina	14
West Virginia	6

Total 40
The remaining 170 votes given to Bryan are conceded to be certain for that candidate.

In the McKinley column are included the following States, all of which are conceded to the Democratic National Committee confidently for Bryan:

Delaware	3
Illinois	24
Indiana	13
Iowa	13
Kentucky	13
Maryland	8
Minnesota	9
Ohio	23
Wisconsin	13

Total 120
This is, in fact, an abandonment of the contest in favor of the Democratic candidate, at least as far as the Herald is concerned. No intelligent person who knows anything about the present campaign can doubt in which column, on the showing, the chances are likely to take place.

There has been no test of the Populist principles since the Presidential election of 1892. It is known from the election returns that the Populist party has increased in numbers about 300,000 or 400,000 since that time, when its vote largely exceeded 1,000,000. But its strength has meanwhile been spent in combination for local offices, now with the Republicans and now with the Democrats, in order to gain a few places for its own followers or to defeat the most objectionable candidates of other organizations.

The Populist party is now again called into action in a national contest, with increased numbers, with the prestige of its remarkable vote in 1892 to stimulate it, and with a flattering prospect of success which was utterly wanting in that year.

The Democratic party will suffer some loss from the defection from the Chicago platform. But that loss is mainly confined to Republicans, while the Populists in the vigorous and growing States which have set their faces firmly against the golden oligarchy.

It is certain from the position of the Republicans of such States as California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Wyoming and three or four more, who, disavowing the Chicago platform, have been adopted by the Republicans of Illinois, Indiana and Kansas and other in favor of gold and silver coin and free coinage, declared boldly and positively that the platform of 1892 and 1896, for the time of state "free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1."

It is not that the careful canvass made by the Herald is remarkably infallible. In California in 1892 there was no fusion on the electoral tickets, and the vote of the state was as follows:

Democratic	118,181
Populist	55,311
Total	173,492
Republican	118,097

Combined majority 25,485
This combined majority was increased to 52,510 in 1894 on the vote for Governor. In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor. In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor.

North Carolina in 1892 voted separately as follows:

Democratic	122,567
Populist	44,732
Total	167,299
Republican	130,846

Combined majority 76,453
In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor. In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor.

In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor. In 1894 the Republican Governor was elected in 1894 on the vote for Governor.

West Virginia in 1892 was not held, and the vote stood:

Democratic	54,497
Populist	4,169
Total	58,666
Republican vote	89,203

Combined majority 8,340
These are the only States in the Herald's Bryan column that are at all likely to be changed.

In the McKinley column are the following States, many of them very doubtful, the votes of which were cast in 1892 as follows:

Delaware	15,881
Republican	18,077
Democratic plurality	504

Since 1870 the State has only gone Republican twice.

In the McKinley column for President in 1892, without fusion, was as follows:

Democratic	429,281
Populist	22,207
Total	451,488
Republican	308,288

Combined majority 40,200
The Presidential vote of Indiana in 1892 was:

Democratic	202,817
Populist	22,198
Total	225,015
Republican	296,335

Combined majority 29,880
Indiana's vote for President in 1892 was:

Democratic	210,795
Populist	22,198
Total	232,993
Republican	296,335

Combined majority 6,340
Kentucky voted as follows in 1892 for President:

Democratic	175,461
Populist	25,900
Total	201,361
Republican	135,441

Combined majority 65,220
Maryland had only a small Populist vote in 1892. The figures stood:

Democratic	115,850
Populist	796
Total	116,646
Republican	92,736

Combined majority 21,909
Minnesota's vote for President in 1892 was:

Democratic	100,579
Populist	30,368
Total	130,947
Republican	122,736

Combined majority 8,211
Ohio in 1892 cast her vote as follows for President:

Democratic	404,116
Populist	14,852
Total	418,968
Republican	405,187

Combined majority 13,780
Wisconsin's vote was cast in 1892 as follows:

Democratic	177,748
Populist	9,870
Total	187,618
Republican	170,975

Combined majority 16,643
It will be readily conceded that the States which cast a combined Democratic and Populist majority over the Republicans in 1892 are not likely to change their position wholesale in 1896, when they are inspired by the hope of victory, when their forces are united instead of being divided as in 1892.

Leaving the Bryan column as the Herald has made it, the loss of Illinois alone or Indiana alone would defeat McKinley. So would the loss of Iowa and Delaware, or Kentucky and Delaware, or Minnesota and Maryland, or Wisconsin and any other State.

The Herald's "careful canvass" in fact, gives up the fight and elects Bryan almost to a certainty. STATISTICS.

World American Free Coinage Double the Price of Silver in the Markets of the World?

Dr. CHARLES B. SMITH, in the Review of Reviews, New York, September.

I am asked what will be the effect of the free coinage of silver by the United States upon the gold price of silver bullion. I reply that the free-coinage of silver by the United States will double the demand for silver bullion and double its price. Under free-coinage our currency will be increased perhaps $100,000,000 a year; but the currency of the gold-using nations of Europe will be increased with equal rapidity even if we retain all our present stock of gold. If we export gold at all it will be a slow process. It is impossible for any one of the nations of Europe to produce silver as fast as the United States. The United States produces silver at the rate of 100,000,000 ounces a year, and the rate of increase in the United States is 100,000,000 ounces a year. The rate of increase in the United States is 100,000,000 ounces a year. The rate of increase in the United States is 100,000,000 ounces a year.

It is not more proper to repeat the honored arguments showing the correctness of the bull's than the value of currency, other things being equal, does depend upon the volume of gold and silver in circulation. Mr. Bryan is New York.

When Mr. Bryan went to New York in August, to accept the nomination for President, there was a concerted effort on the part of the plutocratic journals of the monopoly to convert the impression that he had made a failure, and that his reception was "a frost." Those who on that occasion, tried to reach Madison Square Garden through the hanging and the shouting of the police, knew that to be false, and any inference encouraging to the plutocratic cause that was drawn from the alleged apathy in August, are proven to be false by the tremendous enthusiasm of his reception on Tuesday, when Tammany rallied the Chicago crowd to the rescue of the Chicago crowd.

Mr. Bryan's speech at Tammany Hall deserved to be more fully reported by the Associated Press. The summary of the published editorial columns of the press which was one of the most noteworthy had yet had to receive his answer to President Harrison's false pretenses that the United States was under the hand and shadow of an oligarchy. The answer was a masterpiece of logic and force. The answer was a masterpiece of logic and force. The answer was a masterpiece of logic and force.

For those who are most fearful that there will be a laxity of the enforcement of the law are the very persons who would suffer most if the laws were enforced. The very persons who would suffer most if the laws were enforced. The very persons who would suffer most if the laws were enforced.

It is the answer that is needed to the charges of the corporation attorneys that the Supreme Court is "inefficient" and constitutional government menaced by the Chicago platform. The chief occupation of the corporation attorneys is to enable the aggressions of wealth which they represent to violate the laws with impunity, and to protect their interests in gold. How "Uncle Sam" Got His Name

The nickname "Uncle Sam" was applied to the United States Government, said to have originated as follows: Samuel Wilson, commonly called "Uncle Sam," was Government Inspector of beef and pork at Troy, N. Y., about 1812. A contractor, Robert Anderson, purchased a quantity of provisions, and the barrels were marked "U. S. A." Anderson's initials, and "E. A." for United States. The latter initials were not familiar to Wilson, who was asked to mark the barrels. A facetious fellow answered: "I don't know unless they mean 'Uncle Sam.'" A vast amount of property afterward was shipped to the United States, and the barrels were marked in the same manner, and he was then asked upon the extent of his possessions. The joke spread through all the departments of the Government, and before long the United States was popularly referred to as "Uncle Sam."

Was James G. Blaine An Anarchist?

In 1878, five years after the stealthy and fraudulent demonstration of silver, the Honorable James G. Blaine declared in the United States Senate that he did not know at the time of the passage that the act of 1873 d-m-on-ist silver.

He was the Speaker of the House of Representatives at the time, and had a pretty good opportunity of knowing what was going on. He was in the chair when Samuel Hooper, of Massachusetts, moved to suspend the rules and pass a new bill which he then for the first time presented. Mr. Brooks, of New York, d-m-and-ed the reading of the substitute. Mr. Hooper strenuously opposed the bill, which he then for the first time presented. OUTLOOK IS ALL RIGHT.

Democrats Confident That Bryan Will Win—States Claimed With Estimate of Majority

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—(Special.)—The political outlook at the close of September is the most satisfactory character to the Democratic national managers, who are confident that the cause of Bryan and free silver has been receiving a marked impetus during the past ten days. From every quarter—especially from the Central Western States—come reports that farmers everywhere are flocking to the Bryan standard, while in the cities there are ever indications that an overwhelming majority of the labor vote will be cast for the free silver president. In many of the Central Western States the Democratic managers have completed their first poll, and the returns indicate that Bryan will carry every one of them by immense majorities. A poll of Kansas just completed by the allied free silver forces shows that the Bryan electors will have 50,000 majority in that State. A similar poll of Kentucky shows that Bryan will carry that State by 25,000. The 10-m-orty poll shows that there are less than 15,000 gold Democrats in the State, and this will more than offset the Populist vote.

The outlook for silver. That Mr. Hooper adopted the motion to suspend the rules, and pass the bill without a reading of the substitute, Mr. Blaine called, and a majority vote for it.
